

Okanagan School of Business

Your School of Business

Commercial Aviation Diploma

Since 1990, Southern Interior Flight Centre (SIFC) has offered aviation training, combining flight training with academic courses offered in partnership with Okanagan College. Students complete the program with over 200 hours of flying experience with SIFC. This component of the program consists of flight training, aviation theory and exams, all provided by SIFC. The academic courses are focused in Business Administration, allowing students to complete an education that prepares them to handle the role of a pilot, both in the air and on the ground. These courses are part of the Business Administration program at Okanagan College. Students have the opportunity to further their academic education by continuing their studies in Business Administration.

Dean Ticehurt
Commercial Aviation Diploma Graduate
First Officer, Air Canada Jazz

"I chose Okanagan College because I saw top graduates being offered instructing jobs with the Flight Centre which led into positions with charter airlines and the opportunities grew from there. Having the opportunity for job placement and multiple connections post-graduation is one of the most important parts of anyone's aviation career."

For more information contact Rita Clark, Program and Event Coordinator
P. 250-762-5445 ext 4691 E. rclark@okanagan.bc.ca W. www.okanagan.bc.ca/business

